SATURDAY'S ROAD MEETING

At the courthouse here Saturday at noon the most important meeting for the advancement and material progress of Appomattox county ever held will be called together to consider ways and means of permanently improving roads of the county.

We believe the people are now ready to act—having spent many years in talk they want and demand some action now.

By July 1, 1920 just about five millions dollars will be placed to Virginia's credit by the Federal Government for use on our public roads. This fund is to be matched by Virginia, making a fund of ten million dollars, all available by July 1, 1920.

Under these appropriations the share coming to Appomattox will be approximately one hundred thousand dollars.

Will Appomattox match this $100,000?

Will Appomattox act now, or continue to waste time in talk?

The State Highway will build 25 miles of our road without cost to the county—we already have about 25 miles built—so we have 50 miles of good road approximately already provided for and to be maintained and kept up by the State.

It is estimated that if Appomattox will raise $150,000 to $200,000 all the roads proposed on the Map can be built.

Come Saturday and let's agree on a definite plan of roads for Appomattox. Now is the time.

ANSWERING THE CROAKERS

There are still a few croakers. They say they don't understand why the Victory Liberty Loan is necessary; they are afraid that the government has wasted money; they bewail the high cost of living and complain that they can't buy bonds. But the loan will be launched April 21, just three weeks, and the nation is going to give another proof of its determination and patriotism. For all intelligent people know that the war has not been paid for; all intelligent people realize that the bills must be met; all whose hearts are warmed by the spirit of democracy understand that the victory which saved civilization is worth many times the price we pay.

If a few dollars were needlessly spent, what of it? Even if millions might have been saved, we won the war. That was the big issue, and we were prepared to pay ten times as much, if need be. After the fire is out and the factory has been saved it's easy to fret about the quantity of water used and the splashes on the office rug. But as a matter of record every dollar spent in this country weighed against the Germans' morale. We made stupendous preparations. Two million men were sent to France. More were on the way. Germany, tortured, surrendered.

Had we not made such plans the war probably would have lasted six months or a year longer. The money spent here saved countless lives in France, and who can say that the policy was not a wise one? Now the bills must be paid; the men must be brought home; the sick and wounded given proper care.

Yet there are still a few croakers. They think we have already made so many sacrifices. But how do our casualties compare with those of England and France? Where are our devastated farms, our wrecked homes, our factories destroyed, our towns and cities in ruins? Has not civilization been saved? Is victory to be reckoned on a cash register? Those who went to France did not go as a business proposition; they did not go to clip coupons. They went to destroy militarism and to save the freedom of the world. They smashed the Hindenburg line and with it the Hun's hopes of world dominion.

Now there is the bill to pay, but still there are a few croakers; perhaps there always will be. Not so with the rank and file, the bone and blood and brawn of the nation. The people have never yet failed down when they had a big task ahead. But when the Victory Liberty Loan has gone into history the men who only croaked when everybody else was whooping up the big campaign will have a lot of explaining to do, and, worst of all, it will be a matter of lifelong humiliation, of bitter, galling shame, for him to know that he cannot prove an alibi even to his own conscience.

Hon. J. Taylor Ellyson, whose death occurred at his home in Richmond, Va., yesterday, was a widely known man; there are few counties and towns in the State which did not know him personally. He was highly esteemed by the leading citizens of this community, who regret his death.

Schools Again

Editor Times-Virginian:

Some weeks ago there appeared in your paper an article by Prof. Crawley, comparing cost of teaching in Appomattox High School with that of Clover Hill district, and further with other high schools of the county.

I am not opposed to our Agricultural school but do not think the comparison either just or correct.

It is necessary in comparing costs of schools to handle practically all of the expenses, and the article referred to only deals with cost of teaching.

Mr. Crawley does not count the cost of six wagons running from the district in his school, without which his enrollment would be cut at least one third and his average corresponding ly higher.

I beg to submit, by order of the Board, the following figures obtained from Supt. Feather ston:

Total cost 13 teachers in Ap. Ag. Sch., 9 mos.	$6285 38
Cost of 6 wagons running to same	1270 00
Janitor, Pamplin, 180 months	540 00
Total cost 9 months, exclusive of fuel, lights, and other incidentals	8355 56
Total cost per month	928 38
Daily av. of 265 pupils, makes average cost per pupil $2.25, nos. $2.10, as given by Mr. Crawley
Clover Hill District paid last year for 23 teachers	$5061 92
For one wagon	360 00
Janitor, Pamplin and Vera 18 m's	72 00
Total
Pamplin and Vera schools run 9 mos., so we deduct for 2 mos	1062 00
Total cost for 9 mos	4676 92
For the district, av. cost per mo	946 47
Daily av. for dist., 231, av. cost $2.05 per pu., not $1.10, as given by Mr. Crawley

Comparing further with High school Pamplin, and using enrollment and not daily av., as used by Mr. C—

Cost per mo., Pamplin, 1 teachers	300 00
Cost per mo. for janitor	7 00
Total	307 00

Enrollment last year 160, av. per pupil $1.30, not $2.20

Cost of Ap. H. S. as shown above, per mo. 1064.69, enrollment 475—cost per pupil, $1.99, not $1.45, as shown by Mr. C.

These figures and enrollment are taken from last year's run report.

We see no good to result from boosting one school as against any other one school or district, when they are all in and of the same county and operated by the same county board. But if comparisons are to be made they must be made correctly.

T. J. LIGON,
Chairman.

By order Clover Hill Board.

Charlotte Line

Our boys are coming; but now slowly. Some of them write that they would love to tell what they have seen; also a bit of experience. One of them, writing to his friends, said hear company landed at Brest, and from there to a classification camp. He says:

"The mud was something fierce; yet we called little for that, as we were looking at the curious buildings, funny folks and beautiful scenery. The people here wear wooden shoes, just like canoes, and they drink wine—the farmers make that by the thousands of gallons. Don't misunderstand me, and think to yourself that we have sure enough wine that stimulates a fellow; I think it's only grape juice, not fermented. Soon after we arrived in France about 100 of us went out to Paris for some trucks and tanks. We were sent also to Chateau Thierry. I can't describe the roads and the country—completely torn up by shells, ruined guns, etc. It took us 12 days to cross the big "pond." I did not get sick at all, though we had a few days of very rough weather. We were chased by submarines but we got here safely. After journeying around through mud and water, hardly know ing one day what we would be called upon to do the next. One of our officers asked me if I would like to help censor mail; I said I would like it; so I've been helping in the post office. I like the job, only some of the letters written by some of the home-sick boys makes one feel somewhat that way himself."

I had the pleasure of meeting at the home of Mr. A. B. Hunter last week—among several other friends—Mr. Christian Wheeler. He entertained with music and rendered some old time pieces exquisitely on the violin. Mr. Wheeler is the "very life" of a company. I am not with one of the dear little boys—a mischievous-eyed, dark haired lad name? John—John Thomas Hunter.

Mr. Eli Bard Johnson, known among his numerous friends as Dick, is now back in his home, close by, and if you want the most comfortable chair you ever sat in, get him to make it. His friends and patrons are glad he is with us again.

Messrs. Claud Johnson and Hutson Armistead went to spend the week end with their uncle in Pittsylvania.

Uncle Isham Pincham, a worthy old colored man, died near here last week. He was for several years faithful mail carrier from Reardon-Red House.

We regret that, for our own sake, Mr. C. D. Chambers has accepted a position in Norfolk. It may be best for him, but no bad for us. We were so glad, when we thought he had located permanently here. His wife will soon join him.

What has become of our flower-fried, Mrs. R. W. Paulett?

Where is Long Creek?

Someone says that the teacher at the Marshall school is very strict. What about it, little folks?

Mr. Joe Marshall cut his foot at a barn raising. What a young man at Red House said: "I was no use in Joe's cutting his foot at all, unless it was serious enough for his sister Nita to come home to nurse him."

Metric Denominations.

The metric denominations and values for measures of capacity are as follows: Kiloliter or stere, 1,000 liters, equals one cubic meter; hectoliter, 100 liters, equals one-tenth of a cubic meter; dekoliter, ten liters, equals ten cubic decimeters; liter, equals one cubic decimeter; deciliter, one-tenth of a liter, equals one-tenth of a cubic decimeter; centiliter, one one-hundredth of a liter, equals ten cubic centimeters; milliliter, one one-thousandth of a liter, equals one cubic centimeter.

Possible Grazing.

The harvesting of the corn crop in Venezuela commences in September or October. In most sections of the country only one crop is raised annually, though with irrigation it could easily be two. Most of the corn raised in Venezuela is white, and the market for this is not as good as West Indian and for the yellow maize in the United States. Venezuela would be considered as an excellent source of supply.

A Fathom.

When sailors speak of fathoms they do not always mean the same thing. On board a man-of-war a fathom means six feet, on board a merchantman five and a half feet, and on board a fishing vessel five feet.

Easy to Avoid Worry.

Worry may be compared to any deadly disease and its victims are innumerable. And if we don't want to become one of the unhappy throng we must, wherever our lines are cast, adapt ourselves to circumstances, Airing our grievances and literally looking for more will inevitably result in our becoming downright miserable.

Beginning Tower of London.

A royal palace, consisting of what is known as the "white tower," appears to have been the beginning of the Tower of London. It was commenced by William's son, William Rufus, who, in 1088, surrounded it with walls and a broad ditch. Several succeeding kings made additions to it, and King Edward III erected the church. In 1625 the old white tower was rebuilt, and in the reign of Charles II a great number of additions were made to it. The new buildings in the tower were completed in 1850.

Family at Celebration of 53d Anniversary

Four generations were represented at the fifty-third wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Haycock at the family residence, 900 Q St., northwest, March 4th. Twenty five children and grandchildren called in a body and spend the evening with the couple in celebration of the occasion.

Little David LeGrand Haycock, son of Archer LeGrand Haycock, was the only great-grandson, and as such received special attention along with Mr. and Mrs. Haycock.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs W. Hunter Haycock and children, Mr. and Mrs A. M. Paycock and children, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Haycock and daughter, Mrs. Harry N. Heacock and daughter, Mr. J. W. Marshall, son in law, of Charlottesville and Lynchburg, Va.

Letters and telegrams of congratulation were received from their sons, Mahlon L. Haycock, of Portsmouth Va., and Ira C. Haycock, of Wilburton, Okla., and from their daughter, Mrs. Harold M. Calkins, of Keranville, Golf.

Mr. and Mrs. Haycock were married at Appomattox, Va., at the close of the Civil war. He was a native of Fairfax county and joined Co. H, 9th Va. Cavalry, and was paroled at the surrender. After the marriage they immediately took train for Washington and have resided there ever since.

Making Americans.

If we will plant the children of our immigrants in American soil, give them American companions, teach them in the American language, let them taste American literature, discipline them in the American art of self-government, warm their hearts in the sunshine of American tenderness, sympathy and good fellowship, and always respect the natural which God has given them however it may differ from the ideal, they will grow up loyal patriots, good Americans.—Lyman Abbott.

Protecting Turkeys From Coyotes.

In certain parts of the West flocks of domestic turkeys on frontier farms are protected from attacks by coyotes by tying small bells to the necks of the turkeys. The tinkle of these bells is sufficient, in most cases, to keep the animals away, while not infrequently interested cases have been reported of coyotes dead far from home are annihilated by the beasts.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Familiarity Bad Form.

In offices and shops where men and women work together, it is bad form for workers to address each other by their first names. Men should be careful to address woman workers as Miss or Mrs. Women should not fall into the bad habit of calling men by their last names, Smith, or Jones, without prefacing Mr. It is possible—and wise—to be friendly without being familiar or undignified.—Bibby Spe.

In Death Not Divided.

It is true that in several parts of China it is still considered an act of virtue for a woman to commit suicide shortly after the death of her husband. According to the law, the property is actually legal in some provinces, and such is the state of public feeling that in districts where it is strictly prohibited the authorities rarely interfere.

Mr. John Forsythe, wife and son left last week for their new home in one of the Dakotas. The community regrets losing this splendid family. Mr Carl Scheffler, wife and child is another family we hate to see go. They have moved back to Tennessee in order to be with Mrs. Scheffler's parents, who are getting old and infirm.

After almost two years spent in a German prison camp, Cliff Goolsby arrived in Appomattox the latter part of last week. Cliff was taken prisoner when a horse cost he was aboard was captured on the high seas by the celebrated German raider Moewe. He said he was treated fairly well by the prison camp authorities, with one exception, when he took "French leave" and was absent from camp for six days. Upon his return to camp he was confined to the "donjon keep" for three weeks and had to subsist on bread and water, with every fifth day "dessert" day, when he got nothing at all. While a prisoner he had to wear paper clothing. He is looking remarkably well and rabies, considering his experience.

J. J. Durrum

Mr. John James Durrum, a Confederate veteran and highly respected citizen of this community, died here at his home Monday morning. Mr. Durrum had been in declining health for several years and about three weeks ago he was taken ill and gradually grew worse unto the end. He had been a life long citizen of this community, having been born not far from his late home, May 12, 1843.

Fifty-three years ago he married Miss Ann R. Harvey, also of this county, who survives to mourn her loss along with her five daughters and two sons, as follows: Mr. J. Wilson Durrum of this place, and Mr. R. F. Durrum, of Southwest Virginia; Mrs. C. H. Smith, Mrs. Fields Smith, Mrs. Alma Spiggle, Mrs. E. L. Lane, all of this place, and Mrs. D. W. Johnson, of Lynchburg.

Mr. Durrum's old "Comrades in Arms" showed their respect and high regard for him as a brave and fearless soldier by making him Commander of the local camp of Veterans, which position he held at his death.

His fellow citizens thought of him as a man possessing the courage of his convictions, a loyal friend and a good citizen. Some twelve or fifteen years ago he made a profession of faith in Christ and joined Methodist Episcopal Church; since that time he has grown in grace and his faith Lold steady unto the end. Just a short while before his last sickness, in a conversation with his pastor—the writer—he gave voice to his faith and hope.

The funeral services were conducted at the home by his pastor, Rev. L. F. Callaham, and his body was laid to rest beneath the old cherry trees at the home of Mrs. E. W. Durham. Mr. S. L. Ferguson, speaking for the Daughters of the Confederacy, pronounced a brief eulogy over the grave and placed a wreath of flowers, along with others, upon the mound.

A man the community will miss and one of many admirable traits has gone to his reward.

The farmers around here are busy this week getting in fertilizer.

We are glad to hear that Dr Walker is moving back to the county.

Now comes the Road question. Referring to the circulated map of the proposed National Highway route and the comment on the distance from Prospect to Appomattox, our informer is in error by nearly eight miles, as he claims the route 4 miles nearer than by Hixburg; while there is no doubt of the distance being 4 miles nearer from Prospect to Appomattox via North of Hixburg; and any man that wants to give the farmer a square deal and put the road where it geographically belongs, knows it should pass through the center of the county and the old Surrender Ground, and the farms on and near the river deserve such a thoroughfare. While the Pamplin and Evergreen route already have the railroad and the best kept road of the county, and I must insist in saying we have the natural location. What we want and contend for is a square deal. Can we get it? In politics the cleverest fellow can generally carry his point, right or wrong; but in gathering fruit the longest pole gets the persimmon, and Hixburg route has both given us a chance to show you.

"What helped you over the great obstacles of life?" was asked a successful man. "The other obstacles," said he

There's a hint. Do not recognize difficulties as obstacles, but as a means of showing your power. For instance, take the financial phase:—

Are your habits stumbling blocks or stepping stones?
Are you laphazard or business-like?
Are you paying your bills in cash or by check?
Are you extravagant or frugal?
Are you securing the best service from your bank?

We stand ready to do for you all that any Bank can do for its customers, and you will like the courtesy and personality of our officers and clerks.
